Company Background

AirAsia is a Malaysian airline group that is operating across Southeast Asia with various airlines and is expanding into a digital lifestyle group offering e-commerce, fintech (BigPay), logistics (Teleport), and more.

The Growth & Scale

Starting with a small operation, AirAsia quickly grew to become a very well-known brand across Asia. Currently, they have more than 200 aircraft in their fleet and have flown over 600 million guests so far. With 130 destinations and 21,000 'Allstars', they have managed to connect the whole of ASEAN.

Digital & Capital A

Today, AirAsia has evolved into Capital A, which is a data-driven and digital enterprise. They created the AirAsia MOVE Super App as a one-stop center for travel, while Teleport and BigPay handle logistics and digital finance. This shows they are more than just an airline company, but a digital lifestyle platform.

Leadership & Vision

This success is made possible by Tony Fernandes and his "Dare to Dream" attitude. With their flat hierarchy structure, they encourage all their Allstars to come up with ideas and create innovations. These are the factors why this company remains strong and at the forefront of the digital economy in this region.

Reflections

Learning from AirAsia has taught us to be brave in order to bring change and innovation. We are inspired by how they grew from a budget airline into a leading digital platform. AirAsia has shown us that nothing is impossible if we have the right vision in place. AirAsia is the best example before us in order to always chase our dreams.
